

JAG attendance at BSG Live'26 – a discussion with JAG chair, Tom Lee.

The Joint Advisory Group on GI Endoscopy (JAG) will be attending the British Society of Gastroenterology conference (BSG Live'26) at the ACC Liverpool on 22–25 June 2026. JAG and the Improving Quality in Liver Services (IQILS) team will be located at stand C4 and welcome everyone to come along and chat about our programmes.

Attending the BSG annual conference is highly important to the JAG programme. We spoke with JAG chair, Tom Lee, to provide an insight into why our attendance matters, the activities we will be involved in, and our aims for this year's conference.

Importance of JAG's attendance

'Attending the conference is a great opportunity for JAG to meet face to face with members of the endoscopy and gastroenterology community. It is also a great opportunity to meet with other organisations and to develop our relationships with external partners and stakeholders.'

Located at stand C4, staff members from both the JAG Data and Training team and the JAG Accreditation team will be on hand to discuss any queries you may have about the programme, whether you are currently enrolled or simply interested in finding out more about JAG's accreditation pathways and workstreams.

Additionally, several of our JAG clinical leads and fellows will be in attendance throughout the week and plan to stop by the stand to engage in discussions.

To see who is attending, access our clinical lead rota and bios.

JAG activity at BSG

'Throughout the BSG meeting, there will be a host of sessions being delivered by our JAG clinical fellows and leads. I'll be giving a talk on "Data-driven endoscopy: Insights from NED" on Tuesday 23 June, 3.40–4pm.'

As well as Tom's session, Keith Pohl will be delivering a talk on 'Using real-time data to audit performance with faecal immunochemical test recommendations for colonoscopy triage using the National Endoscopy Database' on Tuesday 23 June, 3.30–3.40pm. Nigel Trudgill will also be delivering several talks across the conference week. You can find further details on these via the BSG Live'26 programme.

Please also visit the Accreditation Unit's LinkedIn page to keep up to date with ongoing JAG-related activities throughout the conference and for any programme-related activities after.

Aims of attendance

'Through attending the conference, JAG aims to develop existing relationships with our stakeholders and improve communications between us and our partners. We aim to use the insight and feedback gained at the conference to help shape JAG's work moving forwards.'

We welcome feedback whether in person or via our contact form.

The team is looking forward to meeting all of you who are planning to visit us at stand C4.

 Royal College of Physicians

JAG Joint Advisory Group on GI Endoscopy

BSG LIVE'26

The JAG team will be attending BSG LIVE 2026 at ACC Liverpool, from 22 June – 25 June.

We look forward to meeting those attending!

Please visit stand C4 if you have any JAG queries.